Living Commentary

The Living Commentary is a computer Bible program with Andrew's personal study notes on over 20,000 verses. He continues to update and write new notes all the time. The monthly updates are available for download, free of charge. As an added bonus, Living Commentary owners have free access to the online Living Commentary. This "mobile-friendly" website lets you read Andrew's Bible commentary on any device with a web browser. It's a great way to read Andrew's notes on the go or from a computer that doesn't have the WORDsearch Bible software installed on it.

Available for Windows or Mac.

HOW to Find, Follow, and Fulfill God's Will

Many people struggle to find God's will for their lives. In fact, a large segment of the body of Christ believes that God sovereignly moves and makes everybody fulfill His will for them without their cooperation. In my opinion, that is one of the worst doctrines there ever was. If you think you're going to automatically fulfill God's will without seeking Him—without yielding or taking steps of faith and fighting against doubt and unbelief—you will be disappointed.

Desiring to know God's will for my life was the thing that really got me seeking the Lord. The first eighteen years of my life were pretty much planned out, but during my senior year of high school, people started asking me what I was going to do for a career, about going to college, and about what my major would be. As I approached graduation, I knew I had to make some decisions. I went to my pastor and a number of Christian leaders to ask them how to find God's will for my life. And you know what? Nobody was able to give me an answer! I was just told to make a decision, and then God would bless it.

Life is not a dress rehearsal. This is the real thing! And I realized that I was going to have to discover God's will for myself. Even though I didn't know exactly how to do that, I figured what I was looking for had to be in the Bible somewhere. So, I started actively studying the Word for five and six hours a day, looking for answers. I used to put a gooseneck lamp really close to my face. When I started to fall asleep, my forehead would touch the rim of the lamp, and the heat would wake me up.

As a college student, I went with a church group to some cabins for devotions, and for the very first time, God supernaturally quickened a scripture passage to me—Romans 12:1-2. The revelation I received that evening set me on the path I am still on to this day, and it started the process of how to find God's will. My How to Find, Follow, and Fulfill God's Will teaching came out of this, and it's a revelation I've referred to probably thousands of times since. It's not just up to you to pick and choose what you want to do. The principles from God's Word in this teaching will help you discover what that is, like it did for me.

Wonderful things go along with finding God's will—a sense of satisfaction, peace, and joy that you cannot obtain any other way. If you don't feel the contentment that you long for, then maybe you aren't doing what God has called you to do. That deserves some serious thought, and this teaching series will equip you with the tools necessary to discover your purpose and prepare to live it. This month, we are offering the How to Find, Follow, and Fulfill God's Will package, which contains the book, three study guides, three CD or Live DVD albums, and a God's Will Testimonies flash drive—all for the price of $115. We are also offering the Living Commentary for a special half-off price of $60 when purchased with the package offer. These materials would really be a blessing to you. We love you,

Andrew and Jamie

LEARNING to Lead— Leaving a Legacy

"Legacy is about what you do on any given day that sows into the next generation. It's about what you do that endures and remains beyond your lifetime. It's about investing in the people coming behind you."

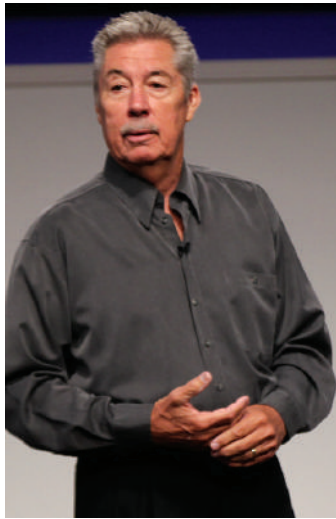

—Greg Mohr, Director of Charis Bible College

A perfect blend of ministry and business is what students are experiencing in Charis's new Third-Year Leadership Program. This program is currently available at Charis Colorado and seventeen other stateside locations and at thirteen international Charis locations.

Andrew's goal is to equip Third-Year students to walk out their calling and fulfill their destinies. Whether students believe they belong in business, ministry, or both, this new program will give them the knowledge and experience to step into their callings and walk them out. Through teaching labs and business projects, students have opportunities to develop leadership skills and then exercise them through practical application.

Classes are a wonderful mix of business and ministry. Paul Milligan, Dr. Dean Radtke, and other anointed business leaders offer their firsthand knowledge of godly business principles that they have developed over years of success and learning from mistakes. Greg Mohr, Pastor Duane Sheriff, and former missionary Barry Bennett share from their hearts to teach students effective principles of leadership in all aspects of the ministry.

Students who feel called to help change their culture by opening a new Charis location now can! This program offers extensive operations training—through interning with a current Charis director—and the opportunity to run teaching and administrative labs. They also experience firsthand the power of true biblical leadership and what it means to direct an organization both spiritually and fiscally. By training those who then go out and train others, the Leadership Program is accomplishing Andrew's long-standing vision to make disciples of all nations, based on 2 Timothy 2:2:

And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also.

This program is also ideal for those who want to make a difference in their communities or areas of business by becoming practitioners of the godly principles and truths they learned in the Leadership Program. If you are a graduate of Charis, apply for this cutting-edge Third-Year track today! Go to www.charisbiblecollege.org/programs. 🌸

A Narrow Road

"Most everybody in the world, their first response is, 'You don't have to have this baby.' My principal had a meeting with me, and he said that I was going to lose all of my dreams and that I needed to give the baby up for abortion."

This is the road Rebecca was staring down. And she might have taken it had she not heard of the Choices Pregnancy Center. Since its inception, this center has been a safe haven for young women in Teller County, Colorado. From offering free services such as pregnancy tests, ultrasounds, and parenting training, Choices has encouraged countless mothers to make the right decision. Such was the case in 1996, when sixteen-year-old Rebecca stepped through their doors.

"I had been in a relationship with Rebecca for about a year and a half," explains Alan. "We were church kids, really involved in our youth group, and we both loved the Lord. We just fell in love really young and didn't have very good boundaries in our relationship."

"I had suspected that I was pregnant," recalls Rebecca. "I went to my friend's house and took a home pregnancy test. Sure enough, the test came out positive. Then I decided to go to the Choices Pregnancy Center. I started talking to one of the counselors, Julie, and told her that there's no way I could be a mom and that I didn't know what I was doing. Julie really provided a safe place for me to just fall apart but also to be comforted as well."

Confident that Alan was going to break up with her, Rebecca picked up the phone to tell him the news. Shocked by how calm and collected he was, Rebecca was assured that their relationship was not over, and they agreed to tell their parents together. Julie also agreed that she would host the meeting, acting as a third party to bring hope and possibilities. With Julie's encouragement and their parents' support, Rebecca and Alan decided to get married. Of course, not everybody agreed with their decision.

"My principal had a meeting with me and told me that I should have an abortion," remarks Rebecca. "I told him I was going to keep the baby and that I was also going to be getting married. He said, 'Well, that's the dumbest thing think Choices does a great job at shining a light of hope into those situations." Jaylen remarks, "To all those people out there who are donating to Choices or supporting it, you really are supporting life."

When you support Andrew Wommack Ministries, you are also supporting over forty other ministries and organizations, including Choices Pregnancy Center. You are a part of bringing hope and life to people just like Alan and Rebecca, who took the narrow road and courageously stood for what was right in the midst of opposition.

that I've ever heard, and you're never going to make it. You are going to lose all of your dreams, and you need to give the baby up for abortion.' He also said if I missed any days of school at all, he would expel me. But it was in those moments that I felt like I heard God's voice even stronger, saying, 'This is not what you want.'"

Alan and Rebecca got married on December 23 and moved into a tiny studio apartment together. "Neither of us knew what to expect with a baby," recalls Alan, "and our expectations could not have prepared us for how difficult it was. At the same time, however, the majority of the feelings that I had at those times were just wonderment. We were able to dream of maybe what the future might hold."

And the future held more for them than they realized. Alan's finish-carpentry business took off when he was only nineteen years old. Today he is known as one of the best in Colorado Springs. As for Rebecca, she's a full-time mom to Jaylen and her three siblings. At seventeen years old, Jaylen is ready to go off to college. She's passionate about leading worship and writing. She's best friends with her parents, and they enjoy going on missions trips as a family.

"While growing up, my family was always really into missions, especially my mom," remarks Jaylen. "I grew up with my parents always going on different trips. So, when I entered my middle school and high school years, I decided that this was something I wanted to experience for myself too."

"I remember specifically one instance, standing in a slum within the central city of Mozambique, Maputo," recalls Alan. "Here was my seventeen-year-old daughter worshipping the Lord and praying for people. I mean, I couldn't have been prouder. I just can't imagine her not being here."

Alan continues, "The world tries to tell you that there's no hope for you—that it's a life of pain and difficulty—but it's not true. I

But you don't have to be in a crisis to take a stand.

You can stand for what is right, and Andrew Wommack Ministries has provided one way you can do that. By signing the "Declaration of Dependence Upon God and His Holy Bible," you are stating your beliefs in the Christian faith and standing for what the Bible says over what man says. You would be uniting with people just like Alan and Rebecca.

Now is the time to stand together, not in hate, but in love and conviction for God and His holy Word. Will you join us?
