To the World Through Technology and Translation

“Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.”
Mark 16:15, New King James Version

These words from Jesus are the framework for everything we do through World Outreach. Even in the face of COVID-19, with international travel banned, we are still fulfilling the Great Commission. How is that even possible? Through technology and through translation!

One outstanding example of this is our annual Grace + Faith Conference Europe, which is attended by German, Polish, and English-speaking people. We held this powerful event as a livestream!

Due to the worldwide pandemic, World Outreach developed a surprising new way to reach more people with the Gospel. “COVID has expedited some things that we might not have even considered at this point,” says Rory Kyle, the World Outreach translations and media manager. “I don’t think it was ever a thought that we might do a live broadcast with translation. We’d done pre-recorded but not live. This has given Andrew a new vehicle to touch people.” Thanks be to God; we’re turning problems into opportunities!

Rory elaborates on the impact this has made. “Andrew didn’t just do another livestream. He said, ‘I’m going to make sure my messages are translated’. I think that’s what really blessed people, that effort was made to get it into their languages.” Having live translators for an event over the internet might seem like a risky endeavor, but it’s one that paid off!

Here is a statistical summary of the response we received on the three nights that Andrew ministered to audiences representing three different countries and languages:

UK – 29th May

6,071 online viewers
133 copies of The Believer’s Authority book were given away free

Poland – 30th May

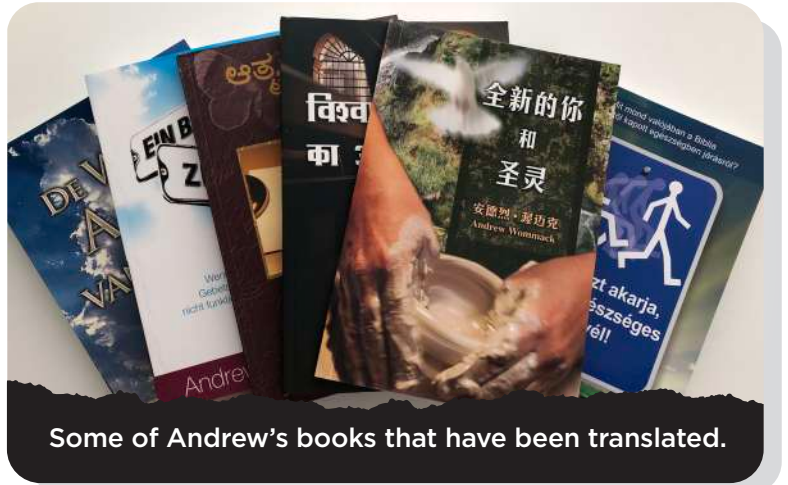

6,332 online viewers
116 copies of The Believer’s Authority book were given away free

Germany – 31st May

1,199 online viewers
75 copies of The Believer’s Authority book were given away free

Praise God!

"When, they get one of Andrew's books in their language, it means so much to them," Rory shares. "It means that Andrew, the ministry and the partners care about them."

To ensure that we keep this vision in front of us, it is critical that we have ministry materials ready for people once they hear the message, no matter what language they speak. Rory explains how this works for our foreign television outreaches: "If you do a TV series and we don't have the book translated, then you're missing an opportunity to get material into people's hands. So, whatever we choose to translate, there will always be a book to go with it."

Rory's wife Cindy, who is the World Outreach Translations and Media Coordinator, talks about the requests she receives for more materials to be translated. "You can hear the desperation in their heart: 'Please, can you help me? We need to get this into our language.' So, the more people who partner, the more we can do that." We want the nations to know that this is a ministry that has a heart for them—to see their lives changed.

It's a big reason we have a World Outreach Partnership: This message is for the world, and we cannot reach them—in their languages—without you. Rory expresses his gratitude to partners. "It's a big thank-you for partnering with Andrew and getting this message to as many nations as possible. As English speakers, we take for granted being able to get this message and understand it - But when someone with a foreign language hears this for the first time, in their native tongue, it has such an impact on them."

If you are not currently a partner with us, please consider becoming one today at awme.net/worldoutreach. You will be helping us train leaders, transform lives, and impact nations!

TESTIMONY:

My husband and I went on our second-year mission trip to Romania. We certainly felt challenged but were also full of expectancy. In one week, our team saw about 130 people saved and many people filled with the Holy Spirit and healed! We ministered in churches, learned to speak through an interpreter, helped churches with street evangelism, visited homes in several Roma villages, and spent one day ministering to children and their mothers. One of my most powerful memories is from street evangelism. I was speaking to a group of Roma kids who were happy to share their sunflower seeds with us and to talk. We invited them to the church service later in the afternoon and left. About halfway into the afternoon service, a group of about eight Roma young people marched into the small church and four of them gave their lives to Christ at the end of the service! There just is nothing like seeing the Word of God come alive! It has made me bolder and more determined to step into all of my inheritance that Christ purchased for me!
