SOWN IN SEPARATION, A HARVEST OF JOY

He who continually goes forth weeping, Bearing seed for sowing, Shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, Bringing his sheaves with him.

Psalm 126:6, NKJV

Andrew's Return to Europe: Joyful Reunion and Joy on New Faces

A lot has happened since COVID. Though travel bans and quarantines made gatherings illegal, the kingdom of God skipped the lockdown altogether by entering the homes and hearts of an entirely new generation—a spiritual harvest made obvious on our most recent trip to Europe.

Upon holding the first in-person Grace & Faith Conference since international borders opened back up (Grace & Faith UK 2023), Andrew Wommack found himself thronged by people he had never met before; believers he had unknowingly spent the last few years discipling thanks to the free materials that our partners have enabled us to offer in every major language.

“This is a whole new generation that Andrew’s ministry is reaching,” says John Donnelly, Director of Leadership Development and Care for World Outreach, about record attendance at the UK conference. “We’ve had people from Germany, from the Netherlands, from Poland, from Africa come here.”

Thousands packed the venue in Birmingham, England, expecting miracles and breakthroughs. When Andrew gave the altar call, hundreds flooded the stage to receive salvation, healing, and the baptism of the Holy Spirit—and this was just opening night!

John continues, “It never ceases to amaze Susan and me at these conferences—the number of people who come forward for salvation and the number of people that come forward for the filling of the Holy Ghost.”

And the numbers didn’t stop in England.

From Packed Movie Theatres to Packed Altar Calls

Following his conference in the UK, Andrew held a two-day Grace & Faith event in Nice, France, where the team had to rent out a whole wing of a movie theatre to hold all the attendees. With lines going out the door, it looked like the premiere of a major motion picture.

“There was a huge queue from the cinema, all the way to the road,” Martin Alargent, Director of AWM France, exclaims. “We came in with Andrew, and it was just amazing because people started clapping and cheering!”

And just like in England, the crowd came expecting. When Andrew gave the altar call that opening night in Nice, nearly half the theatre came up front. “I’ve heard healing testimonies, powerful healing testimonies, lives transformed, people giving their lives to Christ, people receiving the Holy Spirit,” Martin says.

From Death to Life

With England and France’s fractured church histories, the incredible response our team witnessed this past June reveals a spiritual shift happening in our world. Though secular thinking has left Europe in dead religion for decades, the Gospel has a way of bringing things back to life.

“The Gospel trumps any culture. And so seeing Andrew minister in the UK, and France, and all over the world—wherever he goes, he speaks the Word, and lives are being transformed,” shares Mike Pickett, Vice President of AWM’s International Operations. “Every culture is ripe for the message of God’s nearly-too-good-to-be-true news, and that’s what we’re seeing here.”

To our friends and partners, we want to say thank you. Through your support of Charis World Outreach, the uncompromising good news of the Gospel has continued to cross cultural borders and language barriers to bring more of God’s children into His kingdom.

Though these salvations, healings, and baptisms of the Holy Spirit manifested as Andrew taught the Word in person at each Grace & Faith conference, the seeds of this harvest had been sown well before thanks to the free materials you help provide.

“Our hearts always have been and always will be for the world, seeing as many lives transformed as possible. And the reality is, there is no way in the world we could have the impact we’re seeing if it were not for the partners,” adds Mike. “We just want to say a big thank you to each one of you for not settling and, above all, for being very proactive.”
